Every market expansion campaign comes with inherent risks. At PaP we have monitoring processes and mitigation mechanisms to achieve the best results

1st risk mitigation

Leads do not request meetings

Possible reasons:

Choice of saturated niche of offer, diffuse proposition, without differentials or flaws in the approach

Mitigation:

We monitor performance indicators daily and work to align the project, proposing changes to the client, changing prospector executives (if necessary), suggesting a new strategy, another niche, adapting scripts, new products, etc.

2nd risk mitigation

Scheduled meetings do not prove fruitful

Possible reasons:

Ineffective qualification or inadequate preparation to conduct meetings

Mitigation:

With our client's feedback, we adjust the qualification process and/or the client himself, over time, becomes more and more efficient in his conversion presentations.

3rd risk mitigation

Meetings are good, but proposals do not convert into business

Possible reasons:

Sales cycle longer than expected or not very competitive proposals

Mitigation:

Our client can adjust their offer to reduce input friction and with the feedback we can also adjust the market niche for those less competitive.

4th risk mitigation

The volume of meetings and/or business exceeds our client's processing capacity

Possible reasons:

Chosen niche is very adherent to the offer and/or the delivery capacity is below the created demand

Mitigation:

We can suspend coverage of new prospects, keeping only the warm-up of existing leads, or even suspend prospecting altogether.
